The Proceedings of the 24th American Peptide Symposium

Copyright Assignment Form

Please first read the notes below. Then complete parts A and B of this form, sign and return one to the editor and keep a copy for yourself. If you are not the copyright holder of your article (e.g., the institution that you work at may require approval and signature), please complete only Part A and request the copyright holder to complete and sign Part C.

Part A:
Name and address of Author:
____________________________________________________________________________
____________________________________________________________________________
____________________________________________________________________________

Title of Article:________________________________________________________________________

In consideration of the publication of my contribution in the above book, I hereby warrant: (a) that in the case of joint authorship I have been authorized by all co-authors to sign this agreement on their behalf, and references to the singular shall include the plural as appropriate; (b) that this article is the author(s)' original work, has not been previously published elsewhere in its final form (either in printed or electronic format), other than on the author’s personal home page (see point 4 in Notes below) and is not under consideration for publication elsewhere; (c) that this article contains no violation of any existing copyright or other third party right, and that I will indemnify and keep indemnified the Editor and the American Peptide Society against all claims and expenses (including legal costs and expenses) arising from any breach of this warranty and the other warranties on my behalf in this agreement; (d) that I have obtained permission for publication in print and electronic format, and acknowledged the source of, any illustrations, diagrams or other material included in the article and any accompanying datasets or computer code of which I am not the copyright owner.

Signed ________________________________________ Date ____________________

Part B
In consideration of the publication of my article in the above book, with full title guarantee I hereby assign to The American Peptide Society the entire present and/or future copyright in the article throughout the world in any form and in any language and for the full term of such copyright.

Signed ________________________________________ Date ____________________

Part C
Name and address of current copyright holder (if not the author) _____________________________________________
____________________________________________________________________________

The copyright holder hereby grants The American Peptide Society non-exclusive rights to deal with requests from third parties as specified below and to publish the article in the above book in any format throughout the world (including without limitation on optical disc, transmission over the internet and other communications networks, and in any other electronic form).

Signed ________________________________________ Date ____________________

Please return one signed copy of this form by email to the Publisher (E-mail: michallebl@gmail.com).
The Proceedings of the 24th American Peptide Symposium
Notes on the assignment of copyright

1. It is the policy of The American Peptide Society to acquire copyright in all the material published in the book. Assignment assures that requests for permission to reproduce your article in printed or electronic media are handled systematically and in accordance with a general policy which is aware of the market and any relevant changes in international copyright legislation, and ensures the widest possible dissemination of the journals and books, while protecting against possible infringements of the rights of both the author and the publisher.

2. The author retains his or her moral rights in the article including the right to be identified as the author whenever and wherever the article is published.

3. Despite assigning copyright the author retains the right to re-use the material in future collections of his/her own work without fee. Acknowledgements of prior publication in the journal and of the copyright-holder are the only requirements in such cases.

4. The author may:
   - Mount the final edited article in electronic format on his/her own personal homepage provided:
     a) A reference to the original source of publication appears on the homepage stating Author's name, year of publication, article title, “The Proceedings of the 24th American Peptide Symposium. Copyright is held by the American Peptide Society, but is made available on this site for personal use free of charge by permission of the Society”.
     b) a hyperlink is created to the book’s website at http://www.5z.com/24APS/proceedings.html.
   - Make printouts/photocopies of his/her own work for his/her own teaching and research purposes provided:
     a) such copies are not resold
     b) reference to the original source of publication and the name of the copyright holder is clearly stated on any copies made of the article.
   - Circulate abstracts (provided acknowledgement is made to the book).

Please note that permission is not given for the emailing of the final edited article to mailbases or other listservs.

The author’s consent will be sought before granting permission to any third party to re-typeset and reprint material in commercially published edited volumes (which is assumed to have been given if we have not heard from him/her within thirty days of writing to the last known address).

Questions/Comments? Email to michallebl@gmail.com